FITZGERALD MAKES HIS BIG SWING AROUND THE CITY TO-NIGHT

John P. Fitzgerald will make his great swing around the circle tonight—the tour of the city that heretofore he has covered only at the night before elections. He will appear in the city at 10 o'clock, and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, and in the evening at 8 o'clock. He will make two speeches, the first at the night at the Jefferson Club, in Ward 6, his old home.

The first figures of estimates of the result of the election for mayor were made public today in a Fitzgerald camp. This is the prediction:

Total vote in city, 145,000.
Fitzgerald, 42,500.
Andrew, 36,500.
Whitney, 11,500.
Fitzgerald, plurality over Andrew, 8,000.
Fitzgerald, plurality over Whitney, 21,000.

The man who did this morning declared that he had done every all of the work carefully, and that he had distributed the money in the city in the most judicious manner. He said that he had distributed the money in the most judicious manner. He said that he had distributed the money in the most judicious manner.

He said that he had distributed the money in the most judicious manner. He said that he had distributed the money in the most judicious manner. He said that he had distributed the money in the most judicious manner.

Criticism which has been directed against the School Board for naming the new school in East Boston after Bishop Cheverus was answered by David A. Ellis last night in a speech delivered in a hall in Central square, in East Boston.

To the Public:

I have read the signed statement of John H. Fahey published in The Boston Traveler in to-day's issue relative to the alleged attempted control of the paper in the interest of John F. Fitzgerald. I unhesitatingly state that the statement is wholly false. I have for the past five years been the editor of that newspaper and in charge of, and responsible for, its editorial columns. During and since the mayoralty campaign of 1907, the editorial columns of The Traveler have always bitterly opposed Mr. Fitzgerald. In the only political editorial written by me during the present campaign, I stated that Mr. Fitzgerald's election would be a calamity. Because of the pendency of the negotiations which culminated in the sale of The Traveler, by mutual consent between Mr. Fahey and myself, no further discussion of politics was carried on in the editorial columns. There has never been any attempt by any person, named or unnamed by Mr. Fahey, attempt by any person, named or unnamed by Mr. Fahey, to control the editorial policy of the paper, and that fact has been recently admitted by Mr. Fahey. The present situation is due to the fact that creditors of the paper, dissatisfied with the financial management of Mr. Fahey, as Publisher, refused last September to advance any more money to meet losses, and gave him the privilege

EDW. F. McSWEENEY

January 6, 1910.

In view of the signed statement of Mr. John H. Fahey in to-day's Traveler, I desire to give the following facts:

In May, 1908, I became Treasurer of The Traveler and a member of its Board of Directors. At that time the paper was losing money and my business was to help to put it upon a paying basis. No effort of any kind has ever been made by any financial interests to control in any way the editorial or political policy of the paper. In September, 1909, the financial situation of the paper. In September, 1909, the financial situation of the paper had become so discouraging that I was forced to advise the people who had been advancing money to keep it alive, that the circulation was not increasing at any reasonable rate—in fact, remaining below 80,000 gross. I recommended a sale of the paper, and that, pending a sale, a change in the management might show some good result.

As to the claim that "financial interests" objected to the support of Storow or demanded the support of Fitzgerald, I will say that any such statement is a lie.

BENJAMIN JOY

January 6, 1910.

In 1903, believing that Mr. Fahey could, if financially assisted, make The Traveler a successful and reputable journal, we and others loaned and since have loaned to

The Boston Traveler and to Mr. Fahey, at his solicitation, substantial sums of money. Since that time the annual loss of the paper has increased and we became satisfied that this was due to the business incompetency of Mr. Fahey, and in September last we notified him that we would advance no further money to The Traveler unless he resigned his position. This he refused to do, and we then offered to sell our claims against him and The Traveler for a percentage of their face value. This sale was finally completed on January 6, 1910, the date in which his article appeared in

The Boston Traveler, we having sold our claims against The Traveler and against Mr. Fahey for, approximately, 30% of the amount which had been advanced to them. All the loss on these loans falls upon us alone.

The statement that we have endeavored in any way, at any time, directly or indirectly, to control the policy of the paper in favor of the candidacy of John F. Fitzgerald is absolutely false, and the paper has, in fact, for the last three years consistently opposed Mr. Fitzgerald in its news and editorial columns.

Helping Out the New Haven The Public Gets the Shell

Governor Draper recommends that Boston & Maine Holding Company bonds be made a savings bank investment. His reason, as stated in his inaugural message, is a desire to "HELP OUT" the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, the present owner of these bonds, in disposing of them.

The American is moved to ask why the New Haven Road, if it is embarrassed by financing its Boston & Maine purchases, did not let the Boston & Maine alone.

Is this the same great New Haven Railroad that was going to advance so many millions to finance improvements on the Boston & Maine lines?

THE GOVERNOR'S PROPOSAL IS A CLEAR SYMPTOM OF CROOKED FINANCING GOOD MAD.

These bonds do not approach the class of investment proper for savings banks. They are the PROMISE of the Holding Company, which has only a nominal capital, secured by Boston & Maine stock, and guaranteed by the New Haven Railroad.

The validity of this guaranty is by no means certain. The actual security upon which savings bank depositors would have to rely is Boston & Maine stock at nearly its full market price. It never has been the policy of the Commonwealth to make savings bank investments of even the best railroad stocks. There are a great many FIRST-CLASS railroad bonds which are NOT ADMITTED under the rigid requirements of our savings bank laws. If the list of savings bank investments is to be enlarged so prudent banker would consider beginning with the so-called "BONDS" suggested by the Governor.

Moreover, no Governor, Commissioner nor any public authority in the United States has ever ventured before this to make the encouragement of any industry, however meritorious, THE TEST of what is the proper investment of savings bank funds. If we must make a test let's start on something NOT SO NEAR LARCENY.

The net result of the Governor's various railroad recommendations, if the savings banks buy these bonds, will be to give the New Haven voting control of the Boston & Maine, WITHOUT THE INVESTMENT of any money. Having given the New Haven the kernel of the nut, he proposes to turn over the shell to the public.

The Holding Company is, undoubtedly, ILLEGAL UNDER THE SHERMAN ACT. Its offspring is now to be foisted on the usual sleeping public.

Millions of the people's savings are to be invested in FINANCIAL JUNK to make a market at inflated values for securities, insufficient in value and probably illegal. Can it be stopped? Have we got to that stage of mental apathy Nero jeered at when "Bread and the Circus" is all we wish?

ARE GOVERNORS ELECTED TO FLOAT SHAKY BONDS OR TO PROTECT THE PUBLIC INVESTMENTS OF THE PRUDENT?

The SUNDAY AMERICAN is Boston's greatest newspaper. Something in it for everybody. More features and news than in any other newspaper. Circulation growing all the time.

Half Our Meat Is Not Inspected

It is disquieting news that comes from the chief of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry in his annual report, just published.

He says that half the meat sold in the markets of this country is not subjected to any kind of public inspection.

It is pointed out that the government inspection of meat needs to be supplemented to a far greater extent than is the case at present by a State and municipal inspection.

It appears that, in order to avoid the federal inspection, diseased animals are slaughtered for the local markets, since the general government has only an interstate jurisdiction and cannot reach any meat-purveying business that is done wholly within the confines of a single State.

The whole subject illustrates the fact that the national government is getting ahead of the local governments in the development of the principles of a higher kind of civilization.

Whatever may be the corruptions of federal legislation and administration, it remains true—and deserves to be emphasized—that the United States government evinces a higher social sense than the State governments; has a broader, a more humane and a more scientific outlook, and a livelier concern for the general welfare.

Thus the question of the maintenance of "State rights" turns upon the question whether the States are going to develop political vigor enough to follow closely upon the heels of the national government in such matters as the conservation of the public domain and the enforcement of pure food laws.

The States must make haste to catch up with Uncle Sam in the inspection of butcher shops.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

Mama has joined a other new ladies club. It is called The Sisters of the Suggestion. Pa doesn't like it to think that ma has joined a other club. He told her that she was cheating herself and him into a early grave. There is a meeting up to our house last night of the club. Pa tried to get away & go to play billiards, but there was something about it. Ma said she was going to meet all the ladies. Husband, said Ma, was the ladies began to come to the house. I want you to meet my dear friend Missus Loozier-Smith. Missus Loozier-Smith is the leading spirit of our new club, & that is why I wanted her to meet you. That is very sweet of you both, said Pa. It seems to me that your friend Missus Loozier-Smith is a little pair around the club today, and Pa. Was it Missus New Year's Eve, kiddo, and Pa to Ma's lady friend. I want you to understand that I was at home with my husband & Children New Year's Eve, and Missus Loozier-Smith. Well, well, said Pa. I bet old Dooziey had the time of his life. Don't mind my husband, said Ma to her friend. He has a very kind heart, even though his talking is very coarse work and his manners are a little brusk. This is my husband, dear, Ma said to a other lady. Husband this is Missus Loozier-Smith, the treasure of the new club. She is one of the moving spirits of the club, and Ma, it believes that every good or bad act in the world is suggested to the actor by a other person. All right, said Pa. I would suggest that you don't do any damns go in & start your meeting & let me go to the library & read in peace. How is that for a suggestion? That isn't the meaning of the word as we see it, said Ma. What we mean by the word suggestion is silent suggestion. For instance, Missus Loozier-Smith, was going to go out with the boys New Year's Eve, because his wife doesn't like crowds. But his wife, his own personal suggestion, suggested silently to him that he should stay at home & fan her knee, which she had just finished washing, & he stayed home. Is that the kind of a hint, said Pa. You follow is trying to put her out of the house? Well, kids, it won't work. It just won't work. Goodbye. Oh, I don't know, said Missus Loozier-Smith. I & your dear wife has been silently suggesting all the afternoon that you wind stay at home this evening to attend this meeting, & you see you are here. Is that the dope? said Pa. Well, I declare. So you have been suggesting with Ma, have you? Goodbye. Then Pa went out & played billiards till the meeting was over. I may be generous, Bobbie, he said to me when he came home, but I don't like Pa's & I don't like the new of them roasting roosters that dig around all day & never sees them. I am the captain of this household.
